Would it make any difference to you if you had salt on your mashed potatoes or sugar? They basically look the same, so it should not make any difference how it tastes...should it? I have been getting burdened about how the world is constantly seeking to remove distinctions: men, women...they dress the same, they can use the same restroom; it really does not matter to so many. And "Christian music" is Christian because it has Christian words...right?? I also have been working on a sermon or lesson about femininity and sexuality. Do most women know there is a difference? Do most men know that there is a difference?

Are we not called to this: to be different and to make a difference (1 Peter 2:9 & Jude 22)?

Thank God that we have been in four churches since our last letter, three of which have indicated their desire to take us on for support. Wow; that will make a difference for us. Plus, we got word of a church in Alabama that is intending to begin supporting us. Praise the Lord, and God bless these dear folks.

Our conference ministry is all about making a difference in the lives and ministries of Spanish-speaking people throughout Latin America. The most attended conference of the year was held in Mexico City in August. It may be difficult for you to visualize, but nearly 10,000 independent Baptists from Mexico and some other areas attended that meeting that lasted four days.

I am just getting back from preaching and teaching in our conference in Bolivia. It was the highest attendance there that we have had in years. About 40 pastors came bringing about 300 to the evening services. There were four saved and twenty precious folks surrendered their lives for full-time service. Our God is making a difference! There is none other like Him. Our next conference will be this month in Honduras.

Nine of the total 20 that surrendered for full-time service in Bolivia.

Pray for Jodi and Amy. Robin was able to give them her personal testimony of salvation in our local church soul-winning efforts. They each have teenage girls. I was able to lead to Christ a man named Miguel. He was so appreciative of me explaining the gospel and of getting assurance of salvation that he hugged me at the end. Through opportunities God has given me I am also praying for Victor Hugo (Bolivia) and Ignares (Cuba) to whom I gave the gospel, trusting that God will grant them repentance and faith.

Thank you so very much for your faithful prayers and very helpful support. We are praying for you.
