

THE KENNEYS

MISSIONARIES TO GHANA, WEST AFRICA

August and September 2026

Pastors and Prayer Partners,

I am sorry our last prayer letter is so late. We emailed it to our mission agency in July, but we failed to follow up with them. They were not able to open our email to process the letter. They emailed us, but we didn't check our email, so we didn't realize our prayer letter hadn't been sent. We want to apologize for the mix-up. It was completely our fault.

We are getting back on schedule here. We have resumed our weekly visitation, and we will have a biweekly men's prayer group starting tomorrow. Bro. Gyan, the Ghanaian whom I am praying will become the pastor, started a discipleship class with some of the teenagers while I was on furlough. Between preaching on the radio once a month, the Friday night class, regular church services, the men's prayer group, and weekly visitation, my week is full.

The church is doing well; we've had visitors almost every Sunday. For the last couple of Sundays, a young man has been coming. Last Sunday, he raised his hand during the invitation, asking for prayer. I talked with him after the service, and he said he needed to be saved but couldn't talk to us right then. Bro. Gyan and I visited him Tuesday evening, and we took him through the Bible and showed him what God says we need to do to be ready for heaven. He prayed and asked God to save him. We are so happy. He is the first one to be saved since we got back. Please pray for a few others who raised their hands, and for a young man named Dixon who needs to be saved.

On our way to our Wednesday evening prayer service, our headlights went out. I have been having issues with them for a while, but I have always been able to get them working again; this time, nothing I did was working. We had to ride the rest of the way to the service by flashlight. I had to leave our vehicle at Michael Gyan's house and drive home in the church van. Bro. Gyan has been driving the church van to pick up members ever since we left for our furlough, so the church van stays at his house now. We picked our vehicle up yesterday morning and spent the afternoon trying to figure out the light wiring. I knew I would have to replace the headlights before I left for our furlough, so I ordered some and brought them back with me in our luggage. However, whoever worked on the lights before I bought the vehicle completely changed the wiring and put in LED headlights. Those lights kept shorting out on me, which is why I wanted to change them. There was a bird's nest of wires for me to figure out when I pulled out the light. Some wires seemed to go nowhere; some had power, and some did not. Nothing is ever simple here, but I do learn new things because of it. Anyway, I have the lights in, and they are working. Well, as long as I don't want to use the high beams, they are working, but that is a story for another time. :)

Thank you for your continued prayers and support. It means so much to us.
